

Tools for a healthier workplace

Zenefits and Thrive have partnered together to sustain your best performance, improve well-being and productivity in your workforce, and cut the cost of stress.

Powered by Thrive

Thrive is the leader in well-being, leveraging the latest science-based strategies and tools to help people achieve sustainable behavior change.

Well-being interventions that work

Thrive employs a programmatic approach to help all of your employees—encouraging the small, gradual changes that actually get traction with employees and ultimately result in behavior change and improved well-being.

Measurement, tracking, and reporting

Employees have access to several short, proprietary assessment surveys developed by Thrive to measure different dimensions of well-being. Employees are able to track their scores over time, and company admins can monitor assessment results for teams, departments, and the company as a whole over time to identify changes in stress levels or to locate specific pockets of workplace stress.

Personalized, actionable recommendations

Assessment results generate personalized recommendations to relevant well-being content, tools, and training that's triggered based on your employees' answers, allowing your company to proactively address workplace stress through customized learning.

Triggered content delivery

Get customized Thrive content delivered based on potentially stress-inducing life events that are captured in the Zenefits platform.
